

Gloria Saldana

Mine has been a very ordinary life. After Burges, I attended TWC. In April 1966, I married Felix Alvil-lar and moved to southern California. My greatest accomplishments are pictured in the photos attached: two daughters, two sons, and 8 grandchildren.

Since my husband's passion was sports, he was a volunteer coach in various youth organizations. So, I was team mother, pom-pom mother, board member of various youth organizations.

I've been employed in some kind of accounting function for over 40 years; starting as an inventory clerk to my current job as an accountant for RSI Home Products.

In May 1995, my husband died of heart failure caused by low blood sugar. He was a diabetic.

I currently live in Torrance, a beach city in Los Angeles County. My two daughters and four grandchildren live with me. My sons and their families live close by. The next round of youth sports has begun, but this time – no snack bar duty, no team mother duty..... I just get to watch the games.

